WING has secured a collaborative grant with the Global Asia Institute (GAI) in NUS to look at trends in researcher movement in Asia. This is a collaboration with Dr Philip Cho of the Asia Research Insitute, and will be active over the next three years. We are planning to look at the social network of scholars and may expand to look at website evidence as well, to provide basic information for sociologists and historians to make qualitative conclusions about factors for why scientists and scholars move institutions.