As part of his research work, Jun Ping has collected a crowdsourced corpus for event-timex temporal relationship classification. The corpus contains sentences with event and time expression pairs marked out, together with the temporal relationship between these expressions, as defined by TempEval-1 and TempEval-2. His recent COLING 2012 paper was based on this collected corpus, which is now being made available to the general public to spur temporal relationship classification research!